

GRM entertains...the British Ambassador to Italy

Earlier this year we were proud to have the honour of entertaining His Excellency the British Ambassador to Italy, Edward Chaplin, at a special black tie dinner. Also in attendance were Michael Charlton the Chief Executive of Think London the capital's official foreign direct inward investment agency and a number of his staff, and representatives from 14 Italian overseas investors

The event was held at our premises at 1 Bedford Row, where GRM has been resident for over 200 years.

The dinner was held in recognition of the importance of Anglo Italian business in London. Italy is a significant investor in London and the UK and it is of critical importance that Italian owned businesses have the confidence to maintain and expand their operations in the capital.

Following welcome speeches by Michael Charlton of Think London and Jane Laidler, Joint Managing Partner of GRM, and a short address by the Ambassador, a round table discussion was held over dinner which touched on a variety of topics relating to the opportunities and challenges in London which Italian businesses may face.

For further details about inward investment and location into the UK, please contact Jane Laidler: j.laidler@grm.co.uk

